MOUNTAIN SAFARI

COOLED OFF IN THE CREEK

A group of guys who spend most of their working day in a basement office located in the center of town, all got together and decided that the following weekend they would go for a hike into the mountains, and that's just what they did.

It was a very hot day and none of them was so enthusiastic about climbing to the top, in fact when Mark suggested they spend the rest of the day around the creek, they all agreed.

Swimming in the nude on a hot day is about one of the most relaxing of pastimes. Wallowing in the cool water they all thought about their stuffy jobs, and how pleasant it was to get away and really soak up some sun at the weekend. It had not taken them long to decide that a hike into the mountains was a very good idea and one that it should be carried out more often.

After talking it over, it was decided the following week they would bring some food to barbecue and some beer which would cool off very well in the stream. Now they all were wondering why they didn't think of that before . . . a mountain safari.

NUDIST MOTORCYCLE SCRAMBLES

Swamped with Applications to Race

Some parts were rather overgrown and would have to be cut down a little, but there was still plenty of bends and steep hills to make the track worth considering. They announced their findings to the camp manager who agreed that a motorcycle scrambles would be unique and he promised to help all he could.

Nudist camps usually provide quite a lot of entertainment for their guests, but John, Larry and Mark were more interested in the dirt track that some motorcyclists had used. Avid bike enthusiasts, they decided to inspect the track and see if it was permissible to use it.

Is it a Unique Idea?

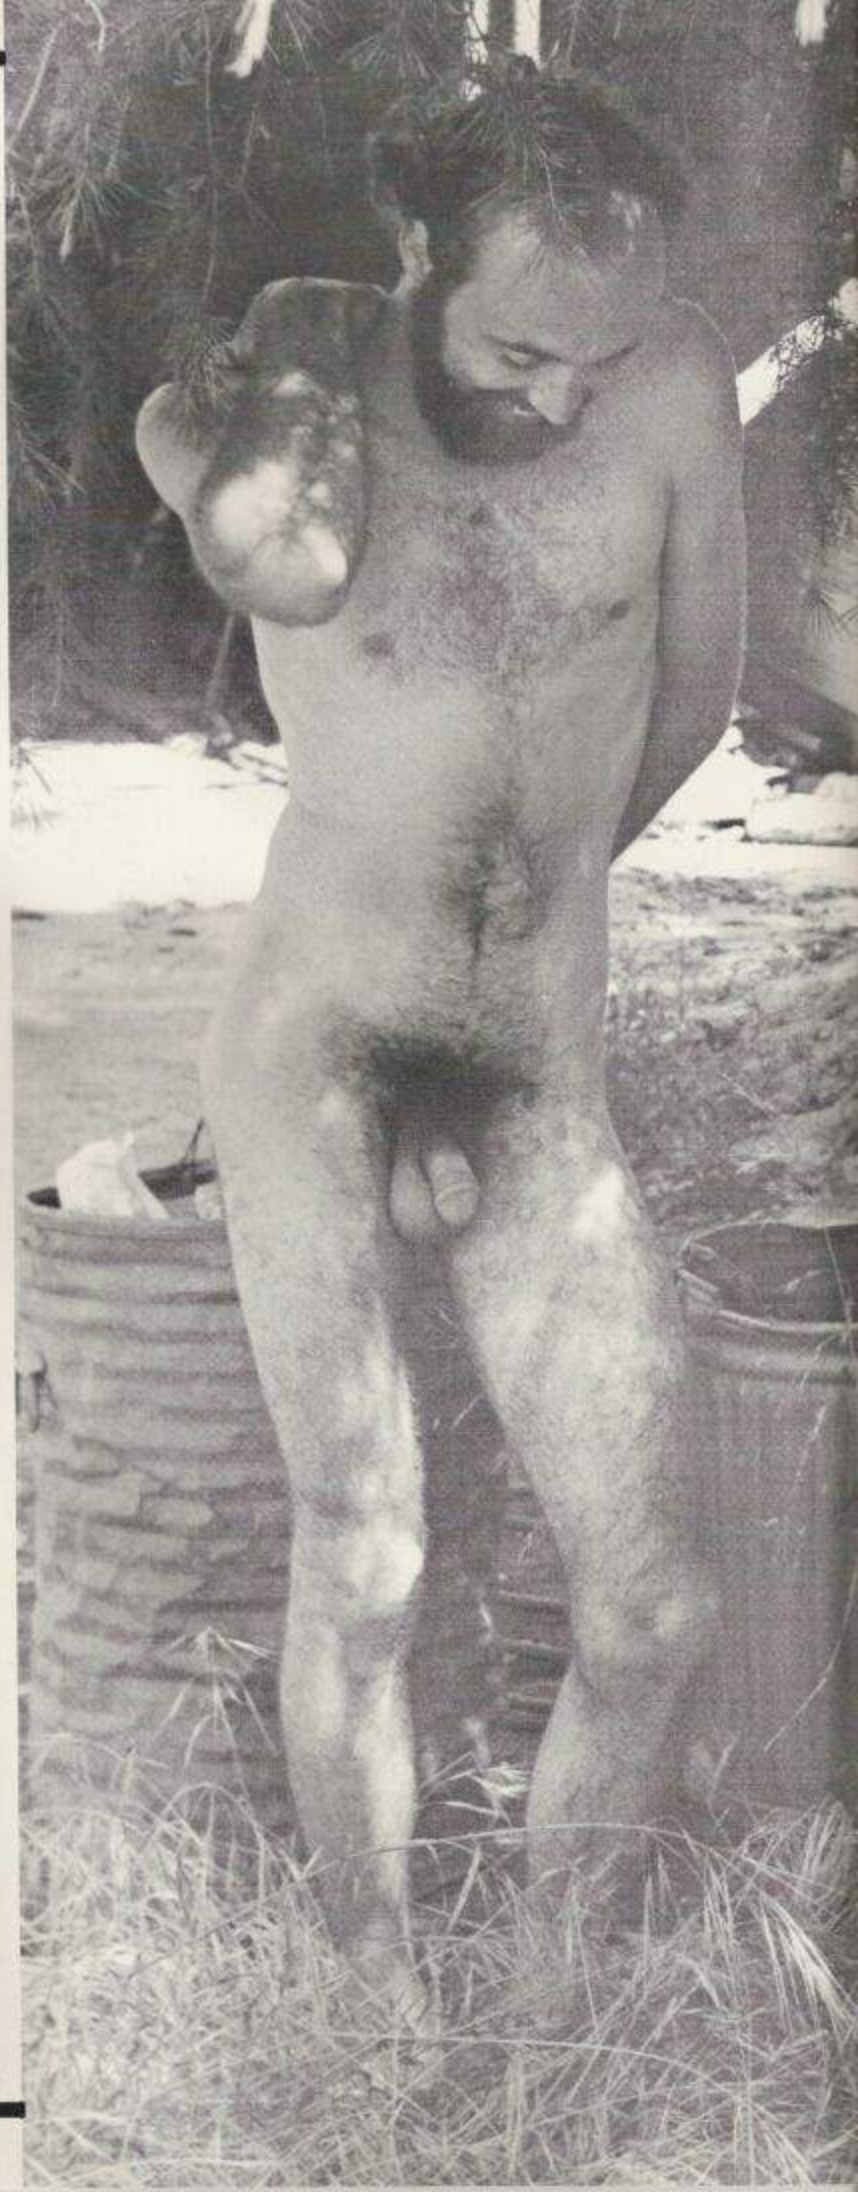
Now they had the full support of the camp manager, the trio decided to inspect the track much more closely and again they went up into the wild area surrounding the camp. Agreed it wasn't the best track in the world, and also they had no idea how many nudists were motor-cycle fans. But it was a novel idea and one they intended to follow up.

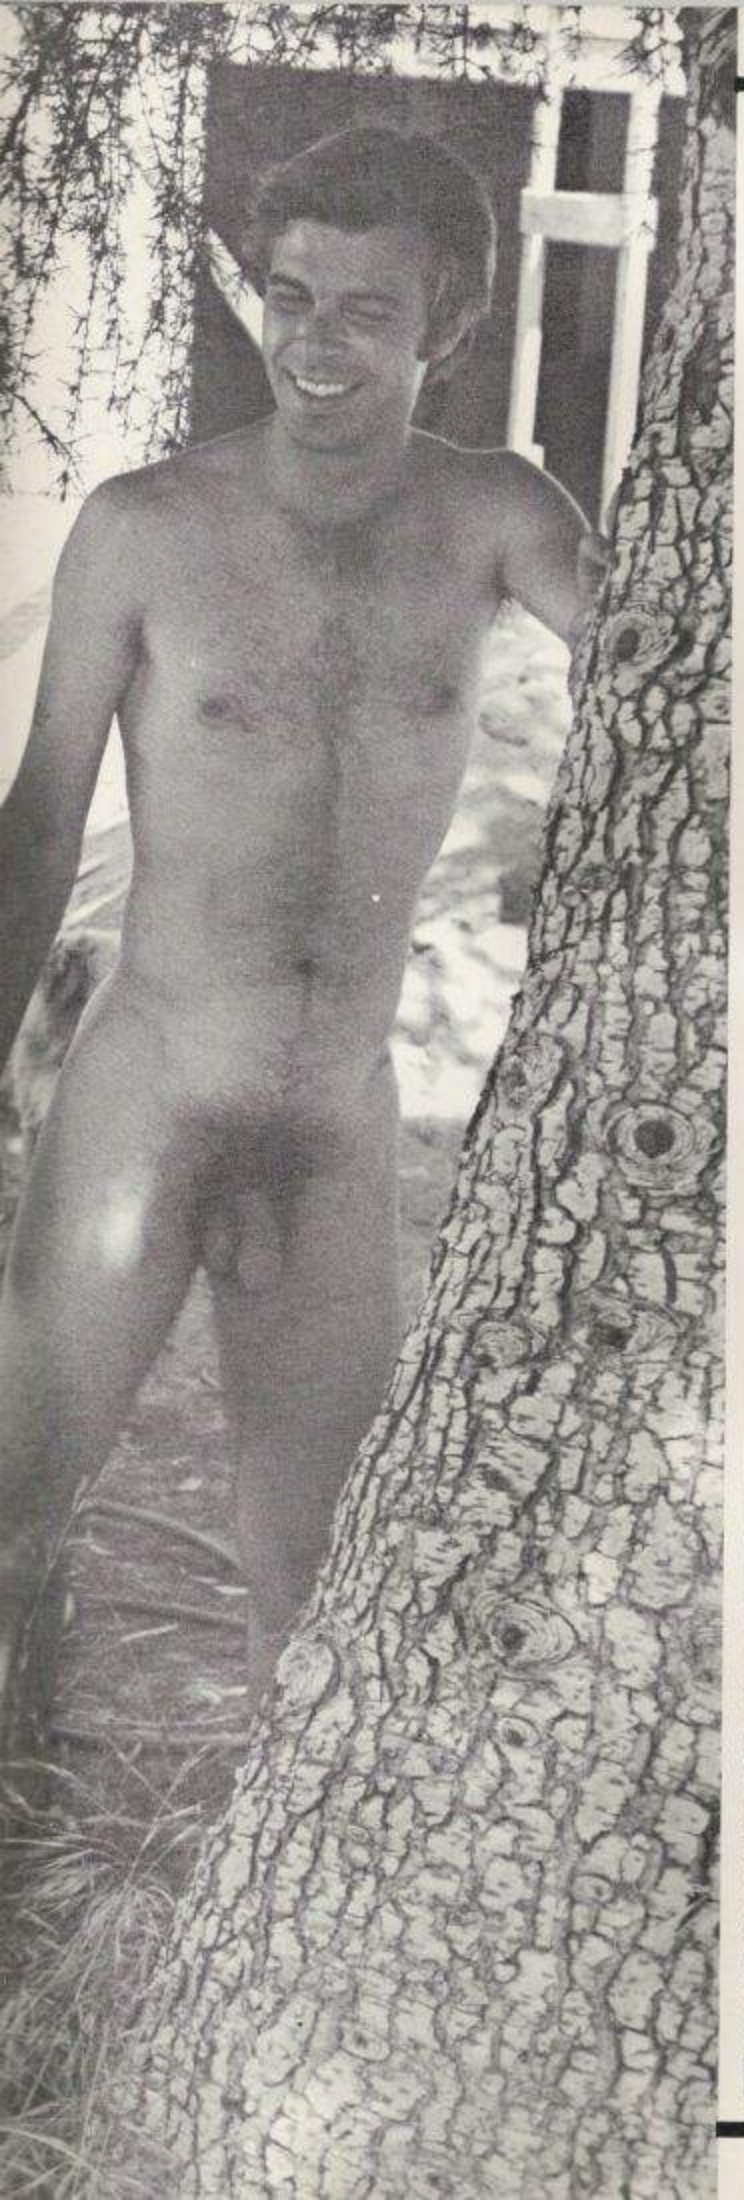
The first thing they had to sort out was a definite route with not too many obstacles at first. Also there had to be areas where the spectators could watch from safety and it also had to be easily accessible for the older members of the camp who were not used to scrambling through the thick bushes.

Discussing the project with the rest of the members, Larry and Mark were surprised to find there were so many people willing to help, especially when they really didn't know much about a motorcycle scrambles.

Covered with Tumbleweed

More Helpers than Work

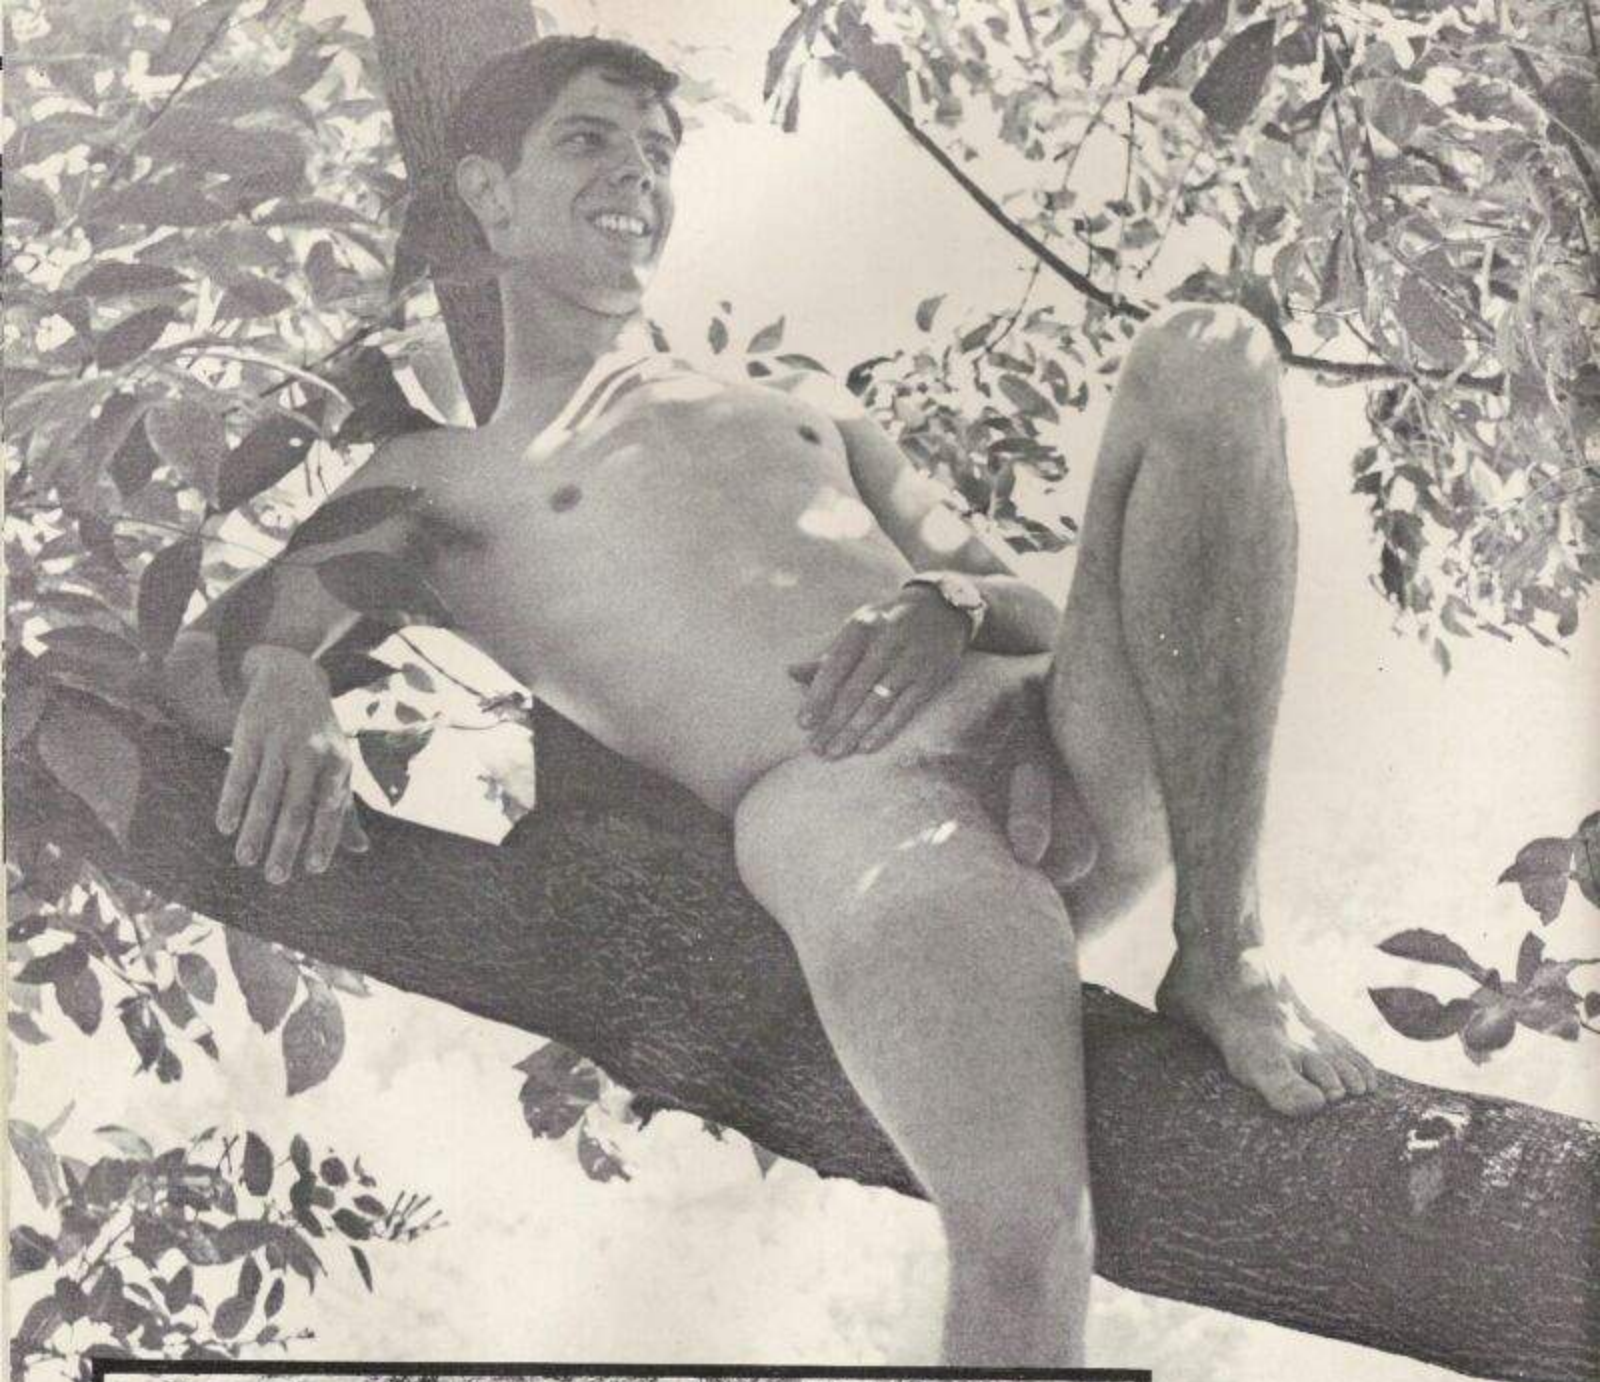


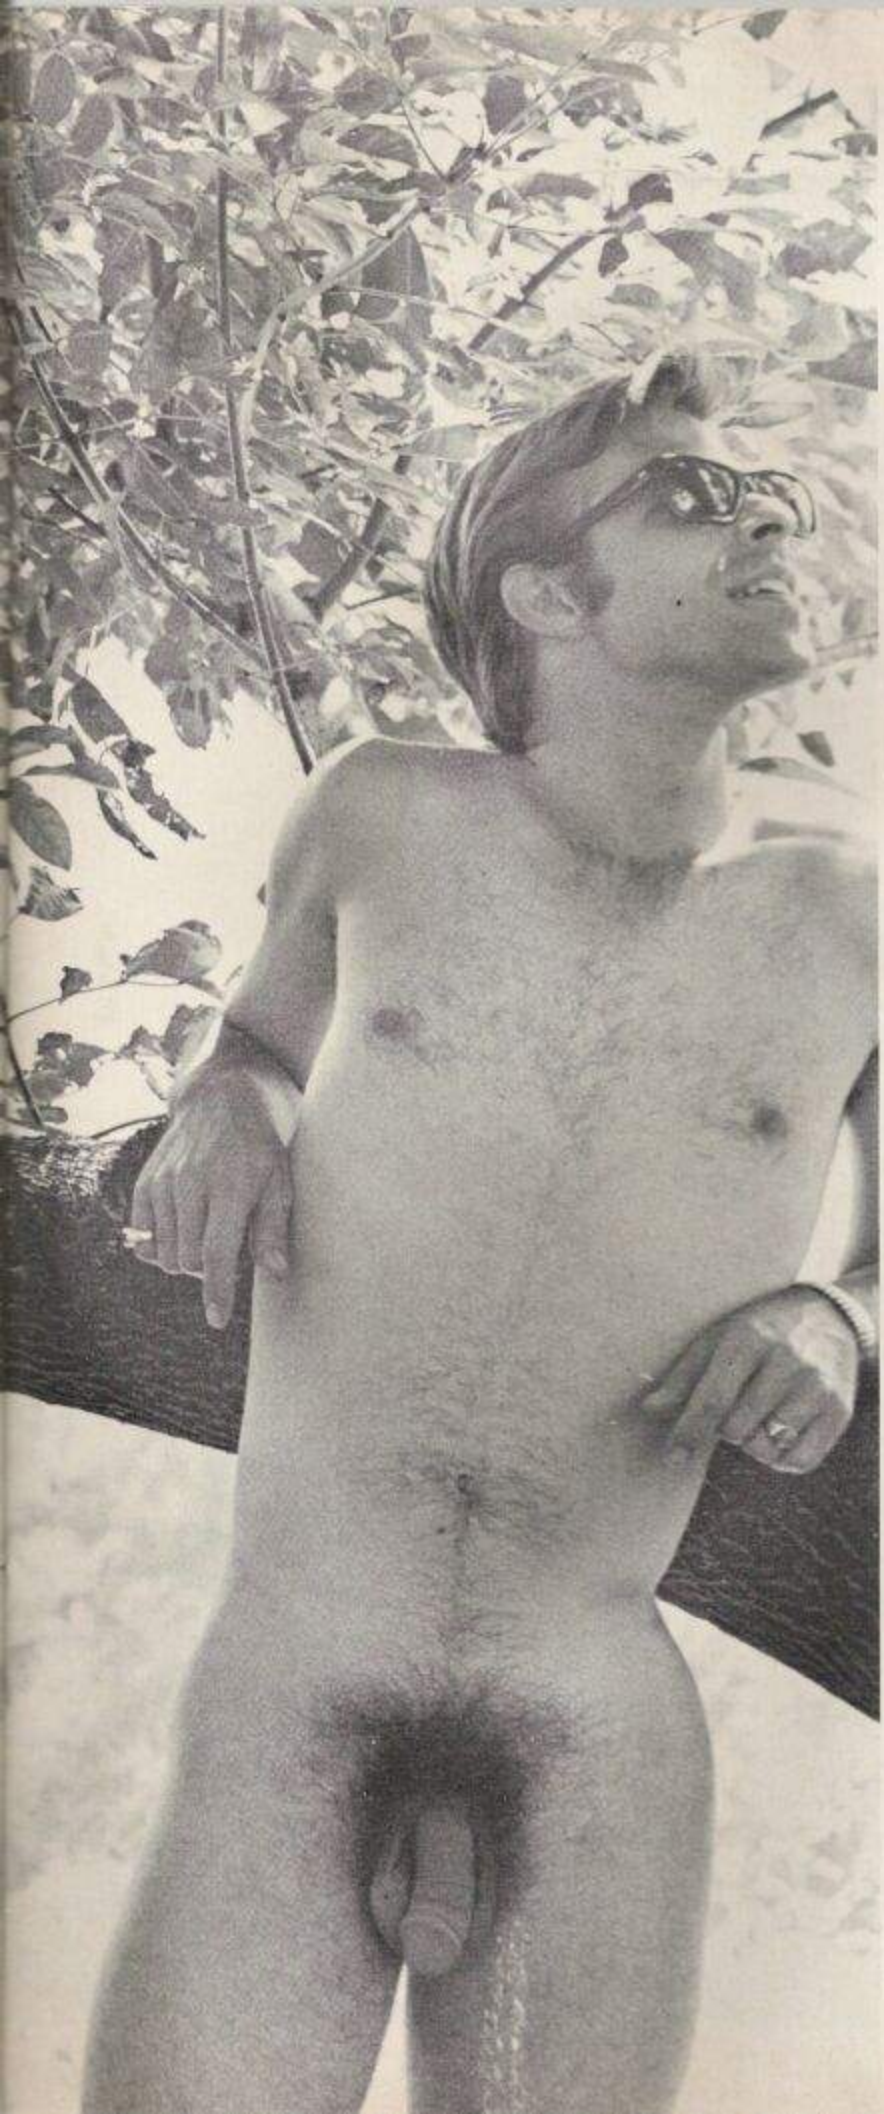


That's one thing they all noticed when they joined the camp, how everyone was very willing to help in any project that would be interesting to the other members. It was a genuine "help thy neighbor" which didn't exist very much outside the camp.

Once the word got around about the projected motorcycle scramble. Mark, Larry and John had more helpers than they really had work for. After all there wasn't THAT much work. How many people did it take to clear off a few tumbleweed bushes? If this many were eager to help, how many would show up for the actual scrambles?

Everyone Wanted to Help



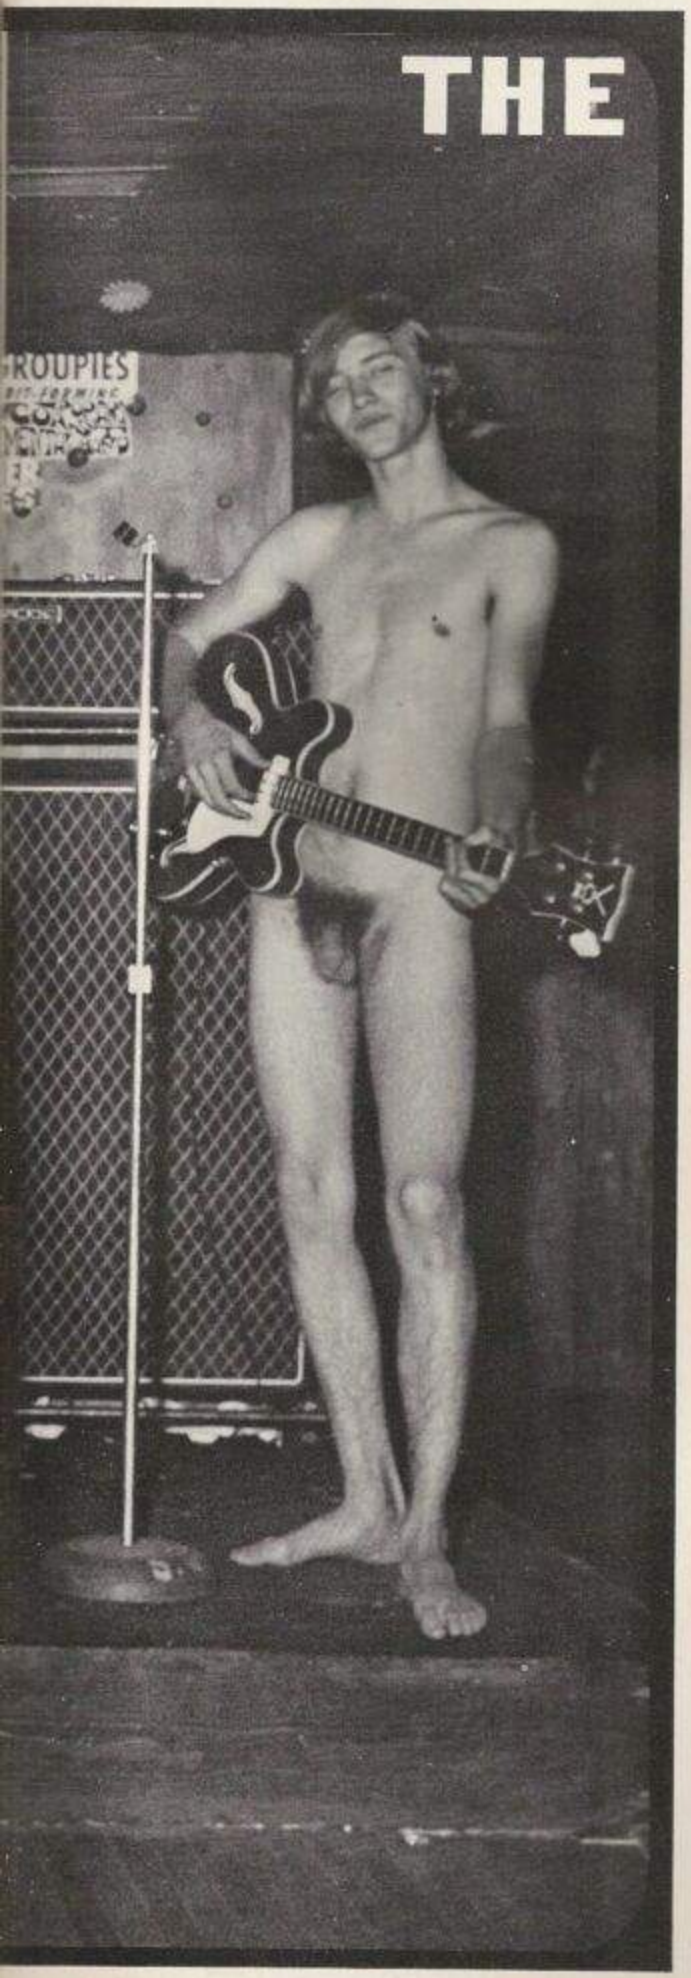


Another thing that puzzled them, what would they give as a prize? And since John and Larry were experts on a bike, should they be handicapped in some way? After much deliberation it was decided the two experts should race each other after the others had finished.

One of the members bought some cups for prizes and had them suitably engraved. Even the engraver admitted it was a novel idea. He had never heard of a nudist motor-cycle scrambles before.

What the three organizers hadn't counted on, was members from nearby camps attending the race. Word soon got around and they were swamped with applications to join in the race. Even the manager of the camp was surprised by the number of reservations that were made, and he quickly provided extra parking facilities and ordered more food and cold drinks.
BOY NUDIST will be covering the event in a later issue and for the first time you'll see a nudist motor-cycle scrambles with John, Larry and Mark leading the race.

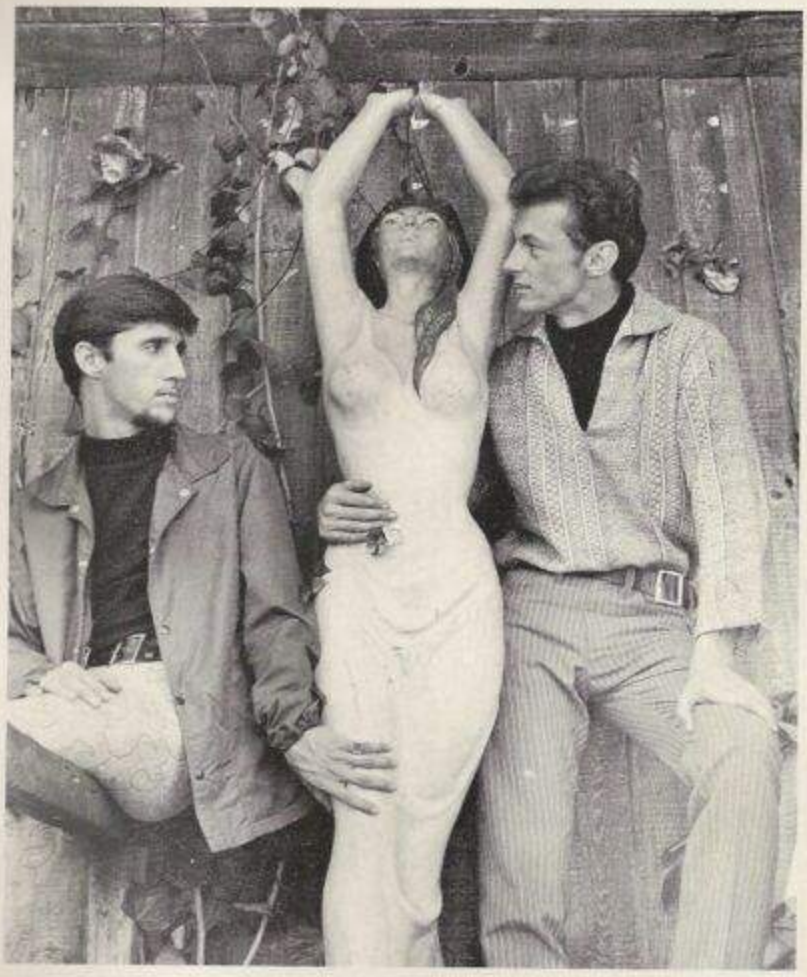
Larry and Mark Were Experts



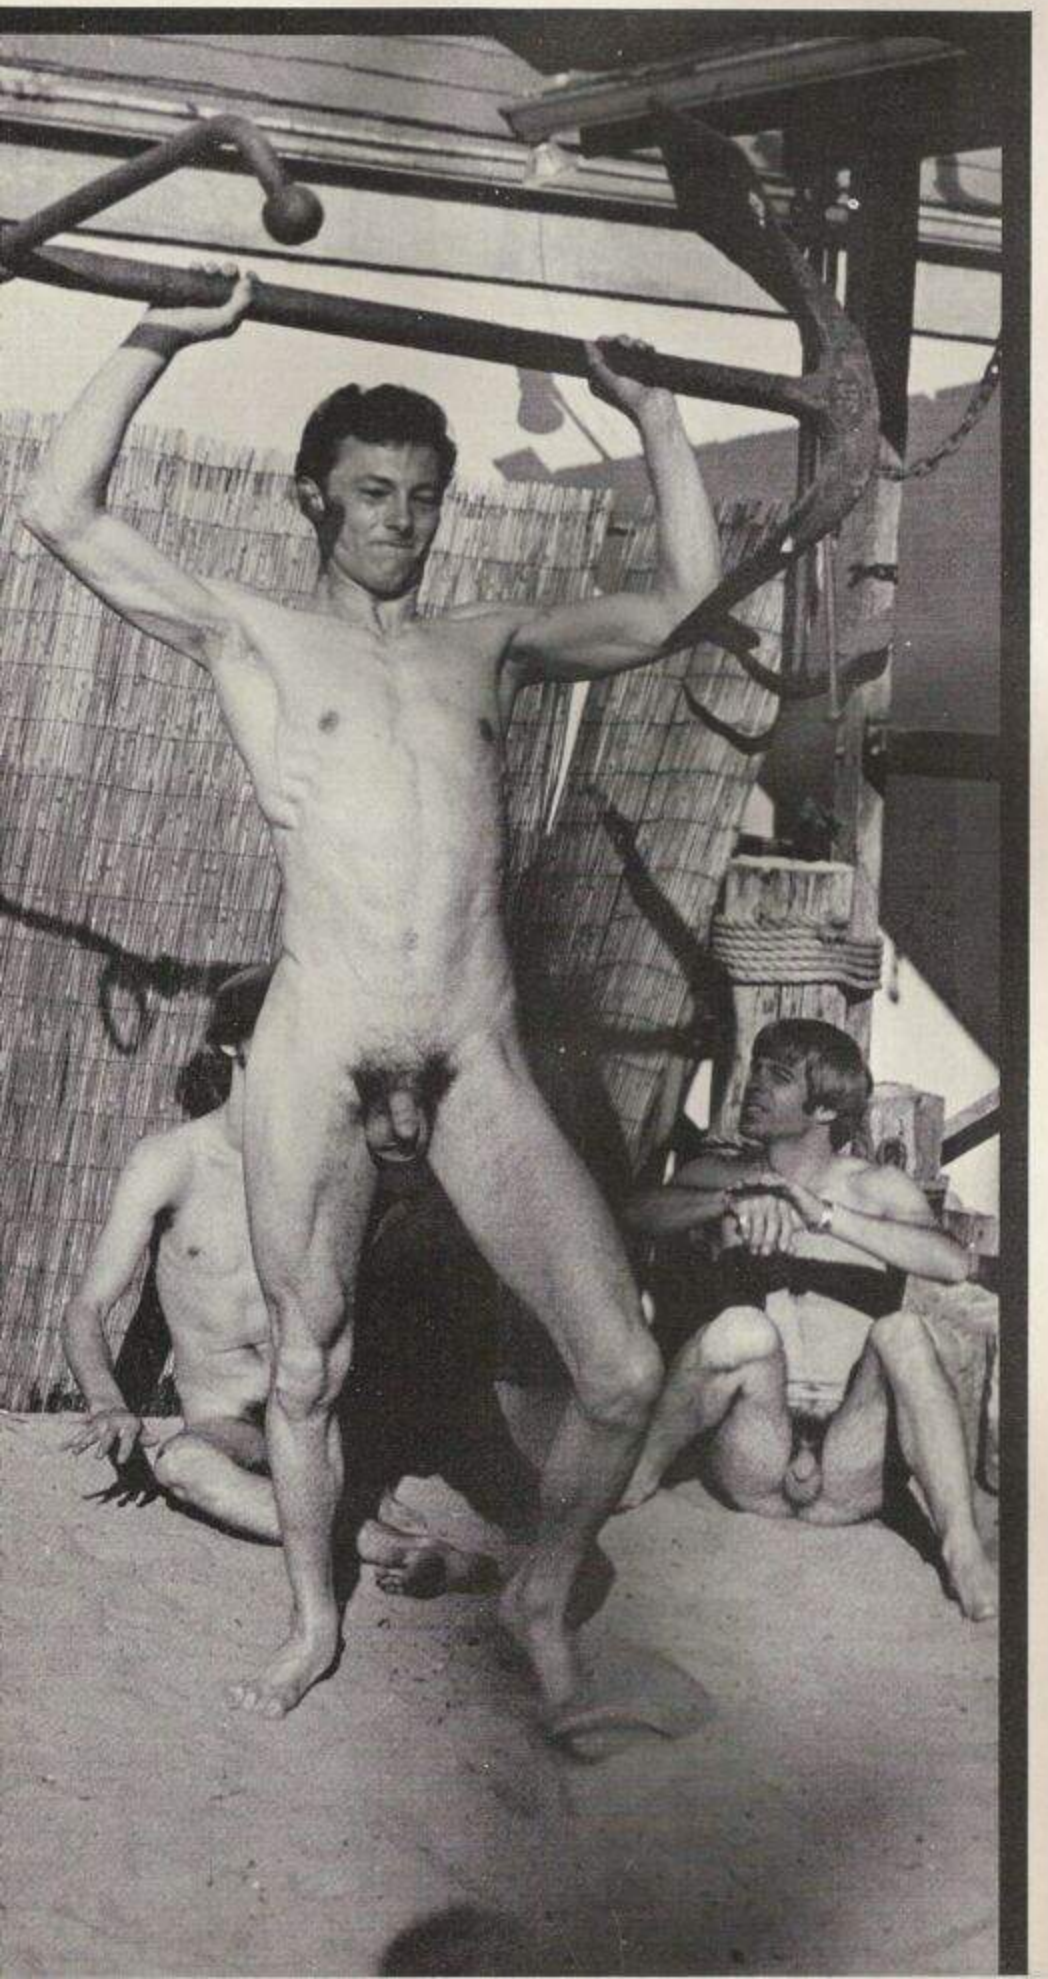
THE NATURALISTS

They're a unique group who have discovered that they have a lot in common. They all are interested in mod music, and they are very interested in nudism. What could be more appropriate than calling themselves The Naturalists. After many rehearsals they tried out for a group of hippies who were very hip to mod music. They liked what they heard, and The Naturalists were on their way.

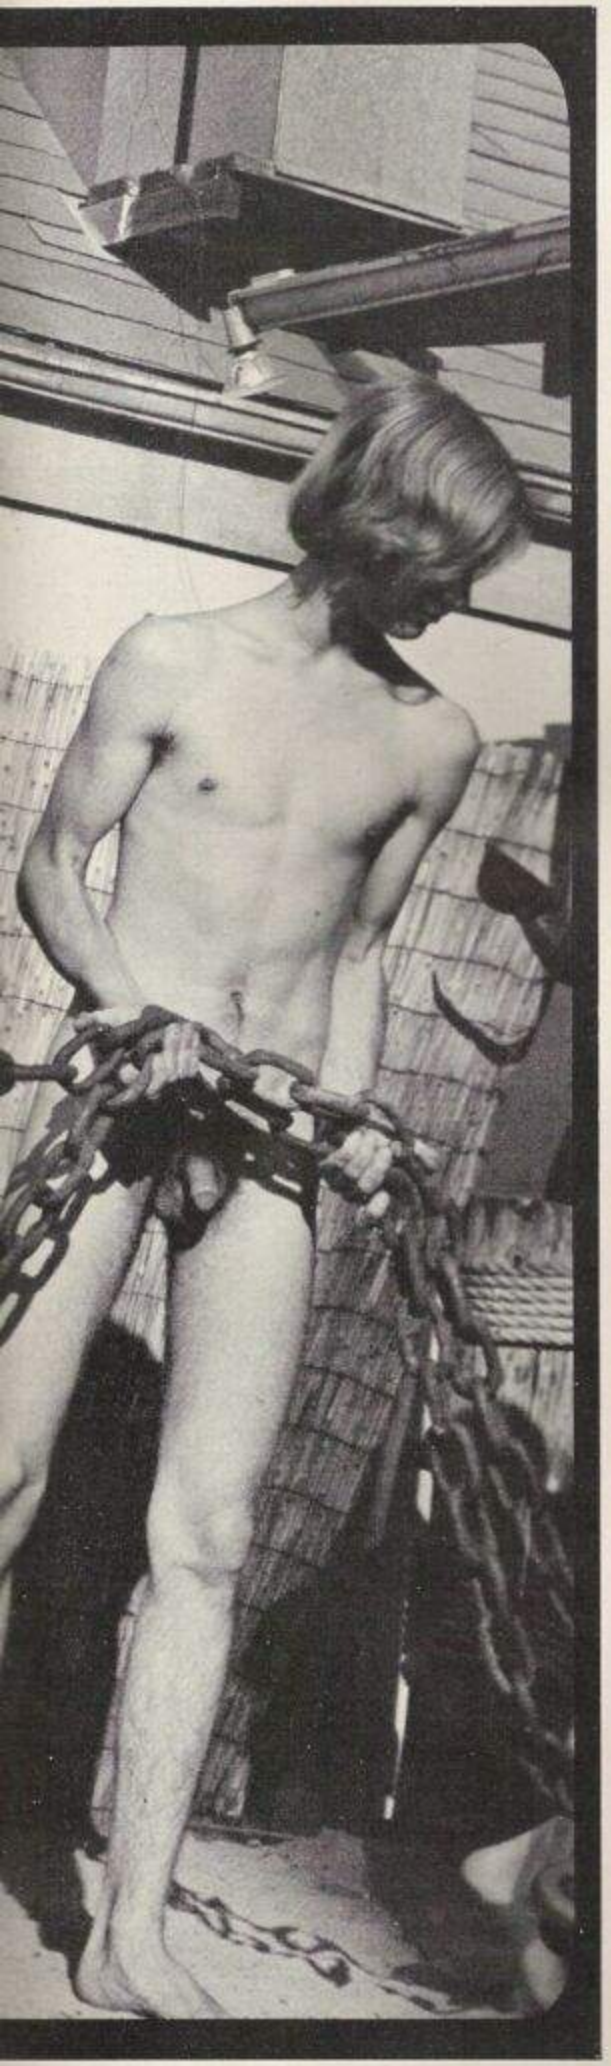
A UNIQUE GROUP OF NUDISTS



THEY GROW BETTER EVERY DAY



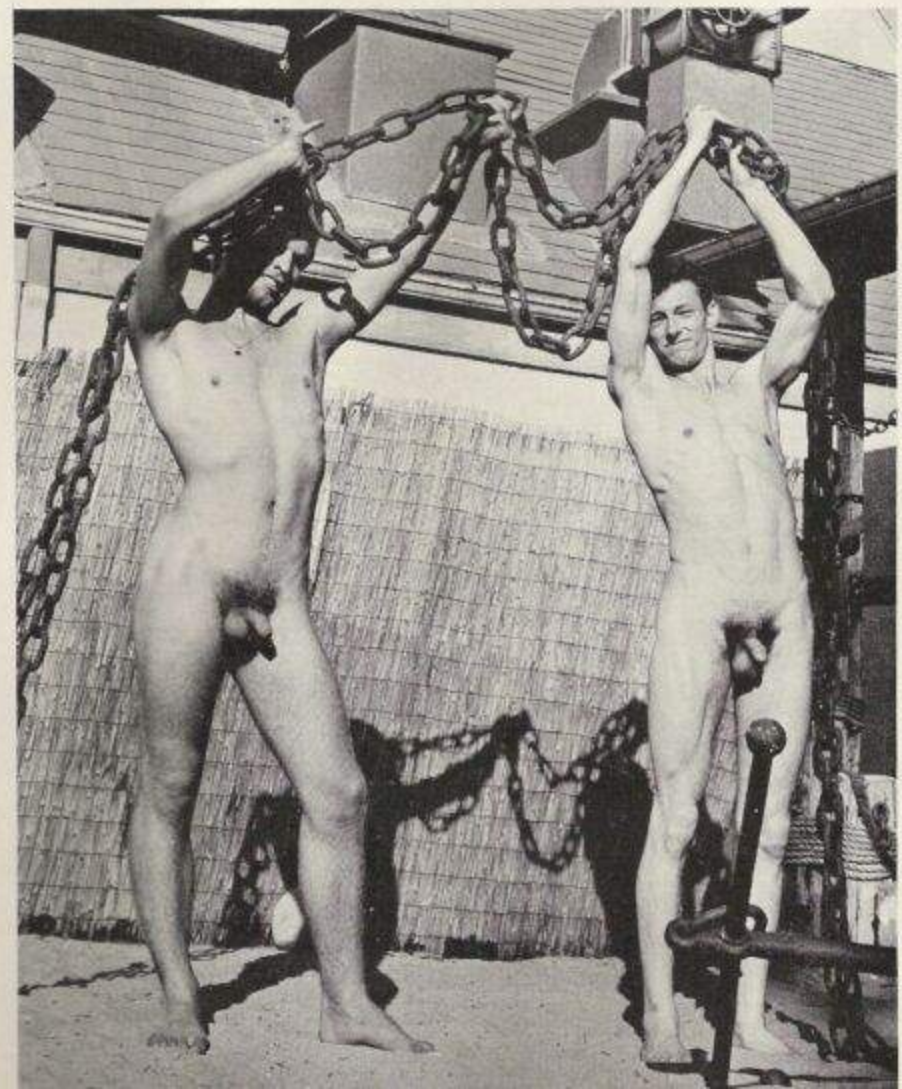
Living in a huge house on the beach they combine all the things they like to do. With no neighbors around they can play all day and all night with no one to bother them. When they get tired of playing there is always the surf and sand right outside the door. This is a wonderful form of relaxation when you have been cooped up in a room rehearsing. The whole group is convinced that their beach house had definitely been an asset and has helped them in the success of their group. All being highly strung and temperamental, it certainly helped to let off steam by running along the beach or splashing in the surf when the weather was too hot. They also feel that the crashing surf has inspired them into composing some very good numbers which they hope will make the top ten. Listening to some of them there is no reason why they shouldn't.



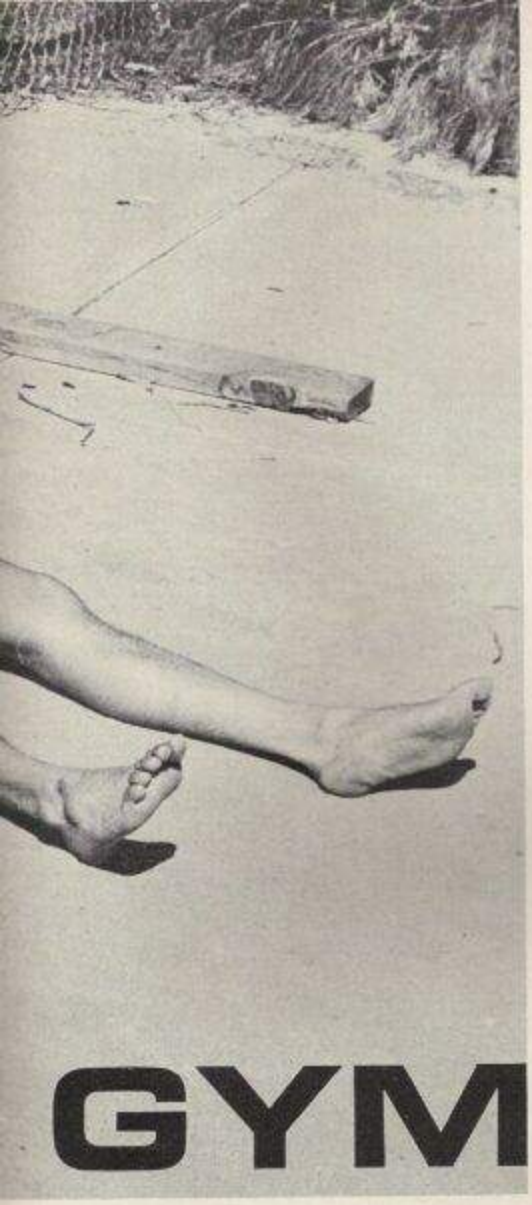
THEY REHEARSE IN A ROW BOAT

Being very keen nudists, most of the group have attended many nudist camps, and as soon as the rest of the camp members knew the boys had a pop group they invited them to play at the various club dances and socials. This was one of the first ways the group got started professionally. Now they have become a regular feature at many of the nudist camps in California making them one of the unique groups in the country.

Living and working near the beach has made them one of the healthiest combos and they are certainly more stable than most of their contemporaries. Sometimes when the weather is hot they take their instruments and climb ino a row boat and allow the tide to take them out to sea. Actually there are many groups today who should do this all the time, but not The Naturalists. They have rehearsed long and often and have been well rewarded by their acceptance, not only among the nudist crowd, but by crowds of fans who regularly show up for all their engagements.



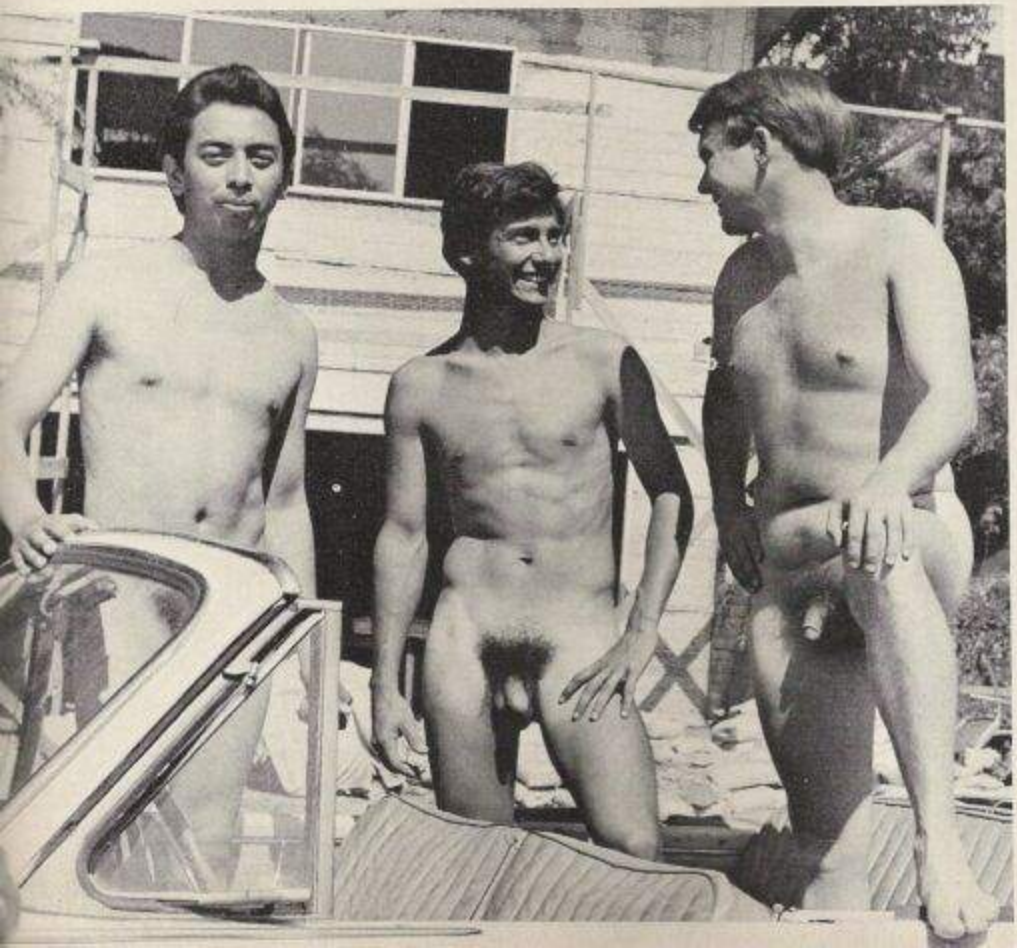
THE

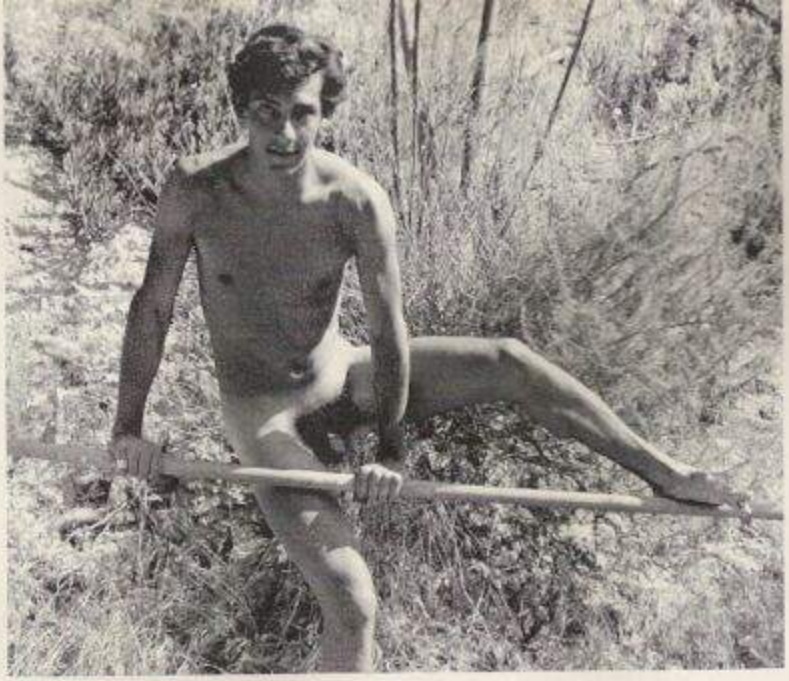


ENERGY TO SPARE

Rob's father is in the middle of erecting a new apartment house on the sight of their old home. When Rob arrived to look over the building with two of his friends, they couldn't resist the chance to take advantage of the outdoors to limber up in the open air. All three are enthusiastic gymnasts and usually they work out in a gym. Here was their chance to exercise in the open air and get a healthy sun tan at the some time.

GYMNASTS





THEY WORK OUT IN THE SUN

All three of them find that the exercise they get at the gym keeps them in good shape, but they had to admit that a workout in the open air was something else. If Rob's father had known they were so energetic he would have given them something useful to do.

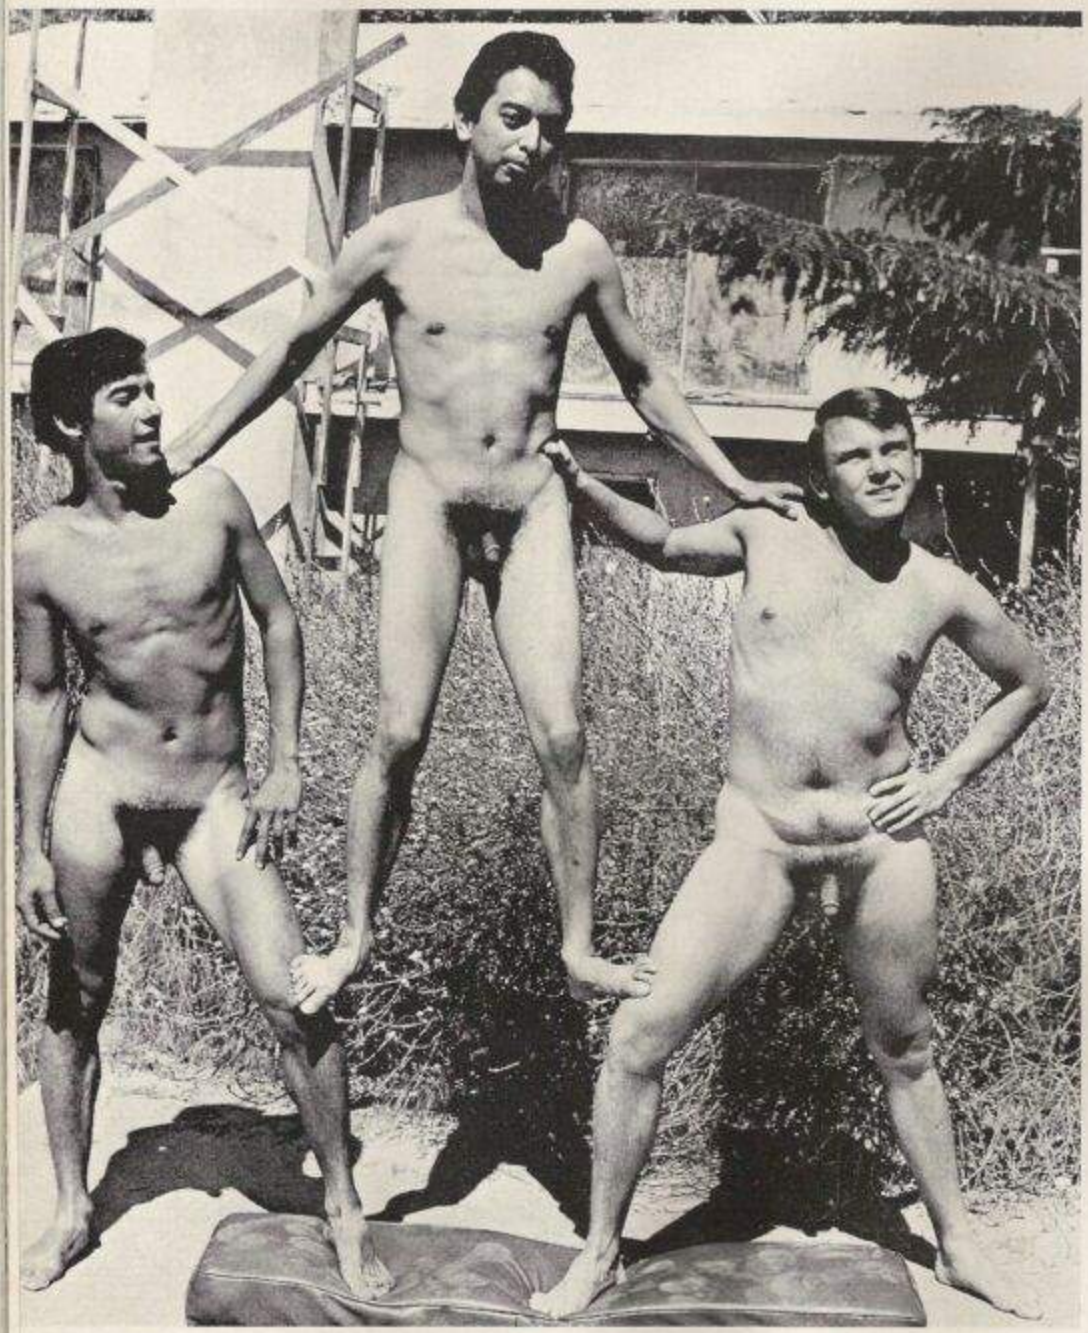
THE SWINGING CARTOONISTS

During the week the three gymnasts work for a film animation company drawing cartoons for various programs. It's a very exacting job and very detailed and requires much concentration. It's not surprising they like to get away from the studio and relax as often as they can.



FUN IN THE

HE WILL MANAGE THE BUILDING

In their type of work there is little chance to get any exercise and for three healthy young men this is not a good situation. Little wonder they all belong to a gymnasium and very eager to work out as often as possible.

Robert is a little sad to see the sight of his old home being used for a building project. When the wrecking arrived to tear down the old house he thought that his father was making a mistake selling the home. Now he realizes that it wasn't such a bad idea at all. The property was very valuable and the taxes were high. An apartment building would bring in a lot of money which could go on other projects his father had started.

About the only thing left of the old home site are a few trees which had been spared the bulldozer's devasting jaws. These will remain and be part of the landscaping in the new project. Even the swimming pool had to be filled in.

Looking over the architects plans for the new apartment building, Rob noticed there were plans for a game room which included many gymnastic exercising apparatus.

A WELL EQUIPPED GYMNASIUM

As soon as the building is finished Rob will be the new manager and his two friends are thinking of taking an apartment in the same building. They have plans to make a cartoon film about the various strange exercises that they have seen at the gymnasium. Naturally it will be a comedy and as they have all had a lot of experience both in gymnastics and cartoon drawing the result should be quite a successful film. The company they work for is backing the project and giving the guys a free hand with the film.

Among one of the characters in the cartoon will be a little old man he looks so frail and old it's almost impossible to believe that he has so much energy. This character is based on a real character they have met at the gym. He has heard they plan to include him in the cartoon and he is quite pleased and even offered to pose for them if they need a model.

Judging by the progress being made by the construction company Rob doesn't think he and his friends will have much more time to work out at the building site, it won't be very long before it will be filled with tenants. There will be the gymnasium that will be included, but it will be indoors and not so well equipped as the one they go to at the moment. There will be a sundeck on the roof which will allow them to keep up their tan, and they may be able to persuade Rob's father to put a few vaulting bars up there for their benefit. Now they have discovered the benefits of working out in the sun it's hard to go back indoors.

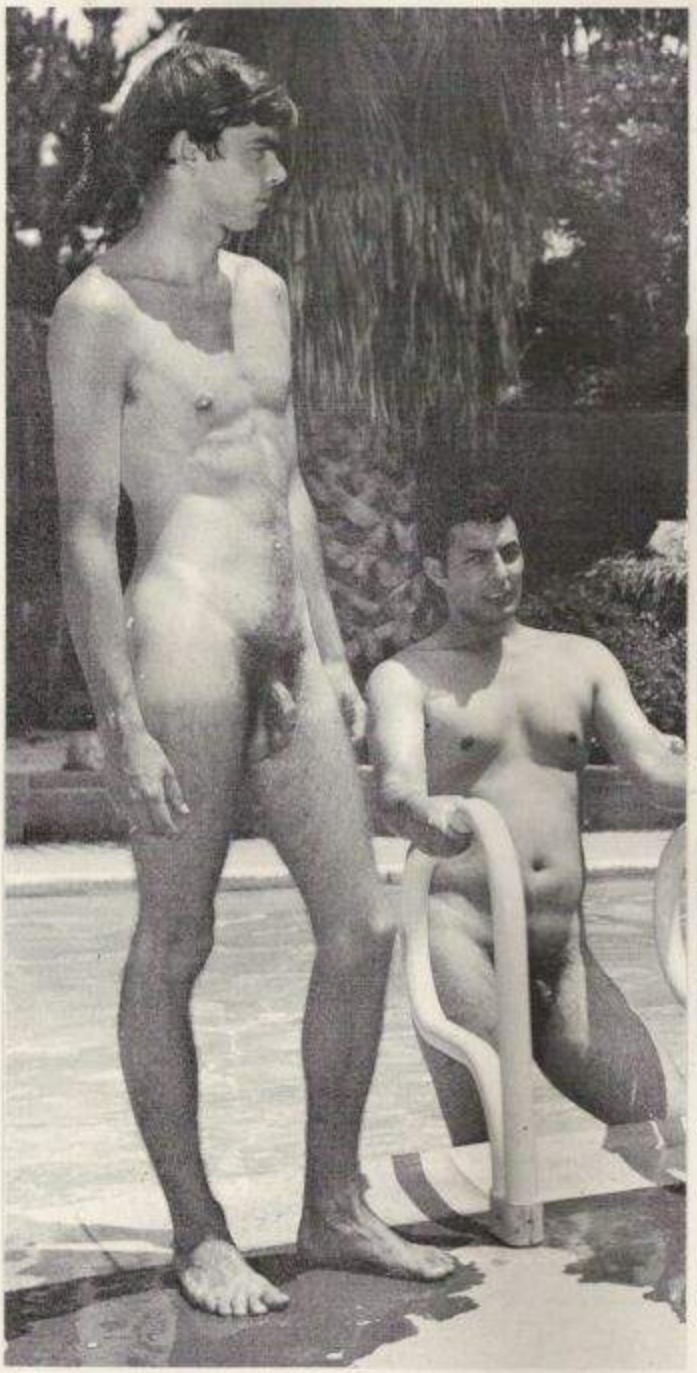
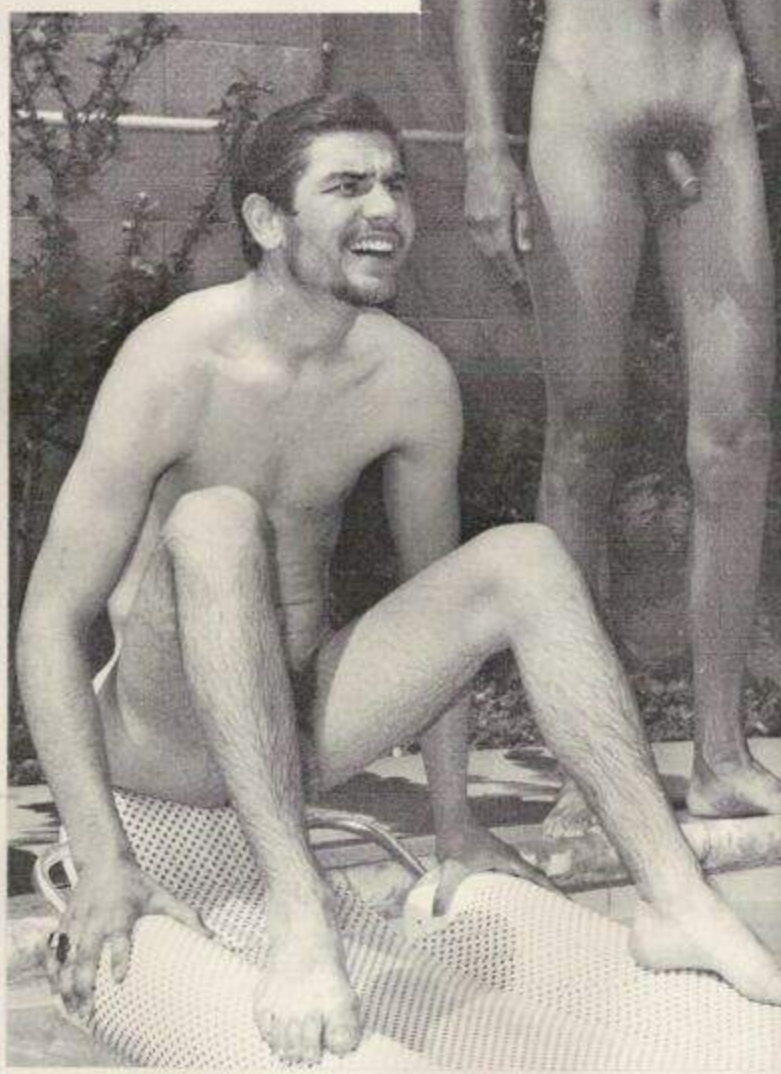
THE NUDISTS AMONG US





When a man decides to shed his clothing and become a naturalist or sunbather, what becomes of the inner man? Frankly, not much of anything happens because "People are Funny," as Art Linkletter used to say on his radio and TV program. And the reason people are funny is that, thankfully, there are a great variety of personalities spread about our world — each one secretly convinced that he, alone, has the inside track on the road to happiness and material success.

A light, trippy visit with the various types of nudists one encounters in this country's parks!

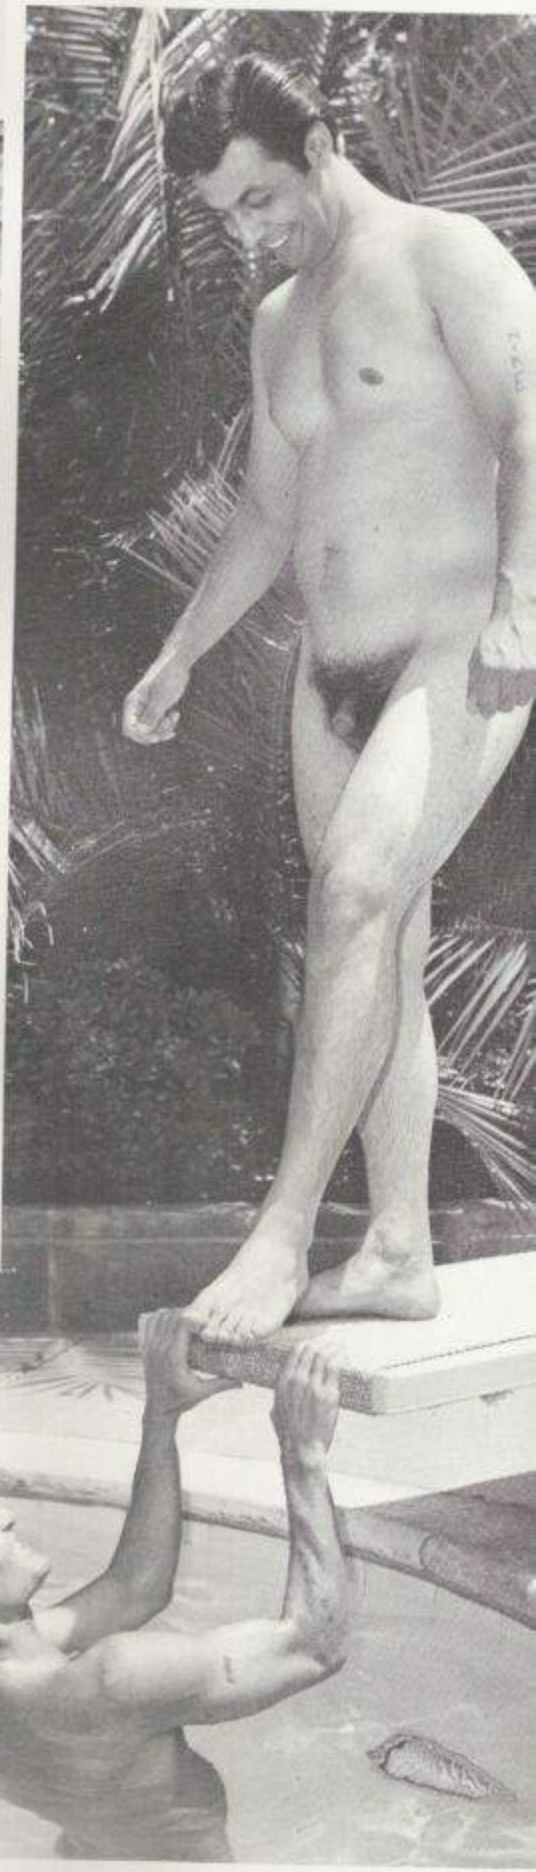
There is a great deal of healthy fun and humor at nudist camps just as there is at any family gathering or clambake. Being a people-watcher from way back, here are some of the fun people you may encounter at nudist camps.

THE SHY VIOLET TYPE

There are always a few of these "shy" types at every nudist camp. Some of them will be "bunny-tails" on their first day at camp, while others have been going to naturalist camps for years. Usually you'll find them sitting in obscure sections of the camp reading or knitting while they bag their sun rays. It would take a team of strong horses to get them on volleyball or tennis courts. If it's a male, he's usually a brain who likes nothing better than to sit under a spreading oak tree and discuss T. S. Eliot, Picasso, and progressive jazz.



TARZAN TYPE

This is the active bar-bell muscle man who swings all day like Tarzan from swimming pool to tennis court to double-quick mountain climbing. He is usually an all-American something or other, and if you can stop him from swinging from branch to branch long enough, he will tell you the batting averages of all the players in the National and American leagues.

THE ORGANIZER

He is the busy big-business man who sometimes finds it difficult to forget his office. He is forever organizing this and that. Before the day is over, even the nudist park boss will be taking orders from him. One nudist park manager I know of, makes a point of heavily stacking food on the dinner plates of such members. A huge, satisfying meal and presto . . . the human dynamo slows down to a long afternoon nap.

SELL, BABY, SELL

Usually, this the salesman on his day off: A very personable, likeable guy who finds it difficult not to try to sell you on anything he happens to be thinking of at the moment. Like, let's everybody go swimming! Last one to the volleyball court is a rotten peanut! Fortunately, sometime during the day he will meet another salesman and the two will lock horns trying to sell each other on someth ng the other doesn't want to buy.
